BRIGHT PROSPECTS

For Planting Trees in Vermont This Season.

The state forester has just issued a circular of the experiment station, giving the prices of forest seedlings for sale by the state nursery and containing instructions for planting. The three principal varieties which the mursery has for sale are two year old white pines at $3.25 per thousand; three-year-old Norway apruce at $3.50; and one-year-old black locust 122 North Main Street, Barre, Vermont. at $2.00. All of the three-year-old pines which were left after last year's sales were ordered some time ago for the coming spring. In fact, the popularity so rapidly that orders have been coming into the forester's office all winter, and 230,000 trees are already spoken for, a number considerably exceeding last year's entire shipments.

On account of the seare last year over the German pine rust disease, no more pines will be imported from Europe. The WM. N. McENANY, Williamstown, Vt. orders thus far received have come from about forty different parties in nearly as many different localities. The south FLEETWOOD OPENS eastern part of the state bids fair to remain in the lead in this work, as Mr. Aitken new has a large supply of homeraised seedlings to plant on the Billings Made a Favorable Impression at St. estate (these, of course, are not included in the above figure), and Mesers, Woodson and Brown, who own a large tract in Springfield, are to plant 40,000 trees this year as a modest starter. Several men. in Brattlebero who planted last year are continuing the work more extensively this year. Mr. Hemenway of Hartland, Mr. Sawin and Mr. Waite of Wind-
